

1. Storage borrows idle execution space

2. Execution reclaims it by evicting

Execution can always evict a borrower to reclaim its half.
Storage can never evict a running task to reclaim borrowed space --- it waits.